Feature walls are often thought of as a white room with a single wall painted bright orange or deep red - but showcasing some color in your home doesn't need to be this obvious.

Feature walls work especially well with tiles. Using one material or the same tiles for a whole room can sometimes look overpowering; introducing a variety of textures and colors is a great way to add interest to a plain space.
